2021 Selected Ideas Call for Ideas: Landscapes of Care

NEWS 15 Jan 2021

We are pleased to announce that we have counted all the votes and are now presenting you the final list of 27 selected ideas that will be invited to the 2021 Creative Exchange and work within the 2021 European Architecture Programme.

Here they are, this year's winners of the Call for Ideas: Landscapes of Care.

With this Call for ideas: Landscapes of Care, the platform set out to explore the dynamics of solidarity and collective self-organisation, the networks of trust working at the neighbourhood scale, and transitional common spaces and activities. This edition aimed to trigger dialogues around the challenges of a society facing up to the myths of endless growth, the glorification of borders and national identity.

This year we have received 457 ideas from 63 countries, and have recorded 918 applicants in individual and group applicants, with projects tackling the fields of environment, sociology, construction, infrastructure, economy, urban planning, heritage, and others.

We were surprised not only by the number of responses and applications but also by the outstanding creativity and innovation of received projects that not only respond to current societal issues but also go one step forward and provide ideas and solutions to actively solve them.

The votes were cast by 27 Future Architecture members and 24 alumni. Staggering 28.371 votes were cast with the public vote. The final selection in the following order: 18 ideas were selected by platform members; 3 ideas were selected by Future Architecture alumni; 1 idea was chosen by public vote; 3 YTAA 2020 winners qualified directly; 2 ideas for Writing grant were selected by dpr-barcelona.
